Who sees what I type?

Lesson 4 notes. Fill in the blanks as we go.

The Card

- The QR code holds a _____ that lets the Card start a chat.
- The assistant never gets your _____.
- Your _____ keeps a list of who had which Card number. That list never goes to the assistant.
- A Card stops working by the end of the _____ at the latest, or earlier if an adult turns it off.

Who can see what

The assistant	The librarian	Your teacher's list
Your questions and its answers	Questions as they're asked, labeled with a class and Card number	Which student had which Card
Card number, class, and your teacher's name	The answers	Nothing you typed
Not your name	Not your name, unless they ask your teacher

How long, and where

The assistant deletes everything you typed at the end of the _____.

Two exceptions: _____ _____ and _____ _____.

It all stays on a computer in _____. It doesn't go to a company.

When a message worries the adults

The assistant checks every message for signs that someone could be in danger. If it finds one, it shows a message written for you and lets the librarian know. The librarian may bring in a counselor. That's not to get anyone in trouble. It's because the adults here would rather know.

The honest parts

- An adult can find out who had a Card. They can ask the teacher.
- An adult may check in even if the answer looked normal.
- The assistant can miss things. It's not a counselor. Talking to a person is always the better way.

Where to go

Who	When	How
An adult here	Any time something is wrong	A counselor, a teacher, or the librarian
988 Lifeline	You feel really down or might hurt yourself	Call or text 988, or chat at 988lifeline.org. Free, any time, day or night
Childhelp	Someone is hurting you	Call or text 1-800-422-4453, any time, day or night
911	Someone is in danger right now	Tell an adult near you, or call 911

One adult here I could talk to: _____ _____ (This is for you. Nobody will collect it.)

Who can see it?

Scenario	Who can see this?	What happens next?
A student types "I want to disappear" and nothing else.
A student shares their Card with a friend in another class.
It's 4 p.m. What is still saved from this morning's questions?

Take it with you

- No name is in the assistant. The librarian sees questions, and an adult can find out who had a Card when they need to help.
- Asking about hard topics is welcome: grief, anxiety, divorce. That's using the library well.
- "What happens to what I type", linked from the Card sign-in page, says all of this.

Check yourself

1. Does the assistant know your name? Who can connect a Card number to a student?
2. When is what you typed deleted?
3. If you or a friend are not okay, name two places to go.
